NINE CALLS TO PEACE: U.S. & GREEKS TO PARLEY

Nine-Power Meet Here Likely

Sweeping aside a 17-year-old isolationist policy, the United States today was ready to join an international jury of peace-loving nations in passing judgment on Japan's invasion of China.

After indicating Japan as the aggressor in the undeclared Sino-Japanese conflict, and as a violator of both the nine-power and the Kellogg-Briand anti-war pacts, the American government awaited a formal invitation to join Great Britain, France and other powers in determining what steps can be taken to stop the Far Eastern war.

Scarcely had official confirmation of the League of Nations Assembly's indictment of Japan as a violator of the nine-power treaty reached the American State Department than Secretary of State Hull issued a ringing statement of approval.

World-wide reaction followed swiftly. It included:

JAPAN—Storm of criticism of President Roosevelt and America's sudden break in Tokyo press with government spokesmen indicating Japan will return to join in a conference of nine-power treaty states, of which she is one.

More army and navy recruits at the same time are called to colors to prepare for "any eventuality."

UNITED STATES—Vittorio Mussolini, 21-year-old son of the Italian Premier, is abruptly summoned home from Hollywood.

Washington officials await formal invitation to Nine Power conference, with assurance from Secretary of State Hull that it will be accepted immediately. Holding of the conference in Washington would be welcome.

ITALY—Boycotting of a Nine Power conference by Italy is expected, as Italy's displeasure with American action increases.

GREAT BRITAIN—British government sees Roosevelt's action as "partial shuffling" of the burden of responsibility for peace in the Far East.

GERMANY—Nazi disapproval or American attitude expressed in determination not to participate in any condemnation of Japan's war on China.

FRANCE—Unqualified approval of United States' stand, and a pledge of fullest cooperation in any "peace offensive."

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7 (INS)—Vittorio Mussolini, 21-year-old son of the Italian dictator, left suddenly for home, called back to Rome by his father.

Hai Houch, who brought young Mussolini here to learn the film business, will not make picture in Italy.

He has withdrawn from the Italian company and will concentrate on his Culver City studio activities in any condemnation of Japan's war on China.

FRANCE—Unqualified approval of United States' stand, and a pledge of fullest cooperation in any "peace offensive."

Hull's Note Weighed by World

By ROBERT C. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 The United States will accept the invitation of the League of Nations to confer with nations signatory to the nine-power pact, Secretary of State Cordell Hull announced today.

Hull's statement came on the heels of dispatches from London indicating Britain and France hoped such a conference would be called and would be held in Washington.

Asked about such a plan, Hull said no invitation has yet been received, following the League of Nations' action in calling upon its members who are signatory to the nine-power treaty to invoke the pact against Japan.

The scope of such a conference has not yet been communicated, either, he added, but the United States' action is guaranteed by the invitation when it comes forward.

The territorial integrity and sovereignty of China is guaranteed by the powers signatory to the Nine Power pact.

The suggestion of Great Britain that the United States act as a mediator in the initiative in summoning powers with interests in the Pacific area into conference at Washington, met a cold shoulder, from Hull.

He inferred that it remains for Britain, France or some other signatory to the pact, which is also a member of the League of Nations, to convolve the conference.

Three Russians tried with Hull on similar charges, received the same treatment.

Governor Brandled As Fascist

Governor Hurley was today labeled a Fascist by Philip Franklin, state secretary of the Communist party and principal witness in the current legislative committee inquiry into Communism, Fascism and other subversive movements.

Under a pounding cross-examination by Lee P. Holloman of Quincy, former state commander of the American Legion, the Communist leader cried:

"I am referred to some members of this commission as Red baiters and I think I am right."

In an atmosphere charged with tenacity, Holloman sharply questioned the witness as to whether he had referred to the governor as a Fascist.

"That means he has Fascist tendencies!"

"Yes."

"And that members of the Legislature are also Fascist-minded?"

"Yes."

"Which means that the governor is a Fascist?"

"Yes."

Melton Is K.O'd in Fifth

Austen Lake's colorful detail story of today's game in Sports Section.

By JOE CASHMAN

YANKEE STADIUM, N. Y., Oct. 7—The New York Yankees became almost prohibitive favorites to make it two straight World Series championships when they beat the New York Giants for the second successive day.

Cliff "Mantle Moose" Melton was Manager Bill Terry's choice to hurl for the Giants. The Yanks outscored him 8 to 1 in the fifth when he was touched for four successive hits and two runs, driving in to Harry Gumbert, the right-hander.

The Giants had little time in pushing the first series. Bartlett's first inning "Texas league" double was followed by Mel Ott's single, his first hit of the series. Bartlett's second home.

Bartlett, "Sensational," got off the opening game, figured in four of the first six Yankee defeats, his driving, abetting catch of DiMaggio's line drive, battering on the sensational. Bartlett added a single in his first inning double on his second line in the third inning.

The Yanks got a life in the fourth when, with two on, DiMaggio singled and Gehrig walked. But Dickey took a called third strike as the runners were left stranded.

MELTON TO SHOWERS

The old Yank power broke out in the fifth when Hoag doubled to open the inning. Selkirk, Lazzeri and Ruffing followed with singles when showed across two runs.

The onslaught sounded the demise of Melton, who was replaced by Harry Gumbert. Gumbert disposed of the next three batters without serious result.

THE DEBACLE continued in the sixth when, with one on, DiMaggio's double, Gehrig's single, and Rippe's single, sent four more Yankee runs scampering across the plate.

The second upstaging was the end of Gumbert, who gave way to Leslie, who went after Coffman in the seventh, combining two hits and a four out ball for two more large runs and an 8 to 1 lead.

French Towns Flooded

POIN, France, Oct. 7 (AP)—Torrential rains today flooded the end of Gumbert, who gave way to Leslie, who went after Coffman in the seventh, combining two hits and a four out ball for two more large runs and an 8 to 1 lead.

Vicious Mayoralty Battle Predicted

Boston's mayoralty campaign today, after an unnatural quiet of six months, has assumed the proportions of bitter political warfare.

With the municipal election only 37 days away, the bitterness so carefully concealed during the past several weeks has suddenly come to the surface.

Veteran observers are almost unanimous in their belief that this 1937 campaign will go into municipal political history as the most bitter election battle of two decades.

VIOLENT FEELINGS
Not even in the fight of April, 1932, to elect delegates to the Democratic National Convention of that year, when supporters of former Governor Alfred E. Smith swamped the forces of Franklin D. Roosevelt, has there been so much personal bitterness displayed by political factions.

A note of humor has prevailed to some extent in recent mayoralty contests and facetious remarks of Mayor Maxwell and former Governor Curley, in other years, have even caused the men themselves to laugh when the joke was on them.

There is no laughter this year. There is no humorous comment concerning the size of one candidate's feet or another's head. A dogged determination to win, combined with a note of desperation, has found wherever a camp follows its leader.

Even some of the candidates themselves reflect the uneasiness which prevails among their supporters. Some seem highly nervous and irritable, some are reported to have clutched behind closed doors with their own friends.

Former State Senator Henry Parkman has aroused the ire of supporters of Mayor James M. Curley, and former Governor James M. Curley by his denunciation of them.

TOLE POWERFUL
At the same time his suggestion that a "fusion" candidate be chosen has stirred up the forces of District Attorney William J. Fildes and School Committee member Maurice J. Tobin, each of whom it is conceded, is a present strong contender for election as Mayor Maxwell's successor.

Charles L. Manser, Republican candidate for mayor, has threatened to discuss the difficulties which beset the Boston School Committee in 1935. School Committee

High hopes for a Republican party comeback in national politics were shared today by these smiling G. O. P. optimists, John D. M. put the car in gear and shot away. The police followed the fleeing car through Dudley and Ruggles streets over the Fenway and Ansbury into Brookline, along Cypress street and back over the same route.

The raided headquarters and all cars were called from Stations 4, 9, 10, 11 and 16 to lay a net for the speeding machine. Brookline cars also joined the chase.

The pursuit ended when the fugitive car hit a hydrant in Marshall street, Roxbury. Five of the 12 shots were fired in the back seat and a white man behind the wheel.

While they were talking the driver was later captured by police.

Prosecution of the offenders was promised by Francis J. DeCelles, state insurance commissioner.

As soon as the town clerk of Clinton submits the 50 names," he asserted, "we will cancel their insurance. Cancellation of their registration plates will follow."

Prosecution will be handled by local and state police authorities. Similar action will be taken on all cases of dummy registration which are revealed in a state-wide investigation. Preliminary work on the investigation was begun today by a corps of private investigators.

Under the direction of Clarence McKee, former G-man.

It was authorized at a conference of insurance company representatives in Mr. DeCelles' office yesterday.

Meanwhile, Dr. Sanford R. Spaulding of Auburn, headed a movement to obtain financial legislative support for investigation of a state-wide insurance racket which he characterized as a $25,000,000 organization.

AKKS REPORT
Groundwork for the forthcoming appeal to the Legislature was laid in Auburn where preliminary investigation last revealed the scope of the alleged racket which he says pays millions in fake automobile accident claims annually.

Support for the drive has been asked in an appeal to selectmen and civic officials.

"In view of the pressure that has been brought to bear to 'squash investigation,'" he said, "the campaign must be conducted under the vigorous protection of well-armed local officials if crooked lawyers and 'fixed' state officials are to be rounded up."

Dr. Spaulding announced a mass meeting in Auburn Saturday which time plans for the investigation will be perfected. The aim will be elimination from the insurance scene of persons responsible for high compulsory insurance rates in Massachusetts.

Hamilton Here, Sees N. E. Trend Toward G. O. P.

Calls on Roosevelt To Make Statement On Justice Black

There is a definite trend toward return of Republicanism in New England, it was declared today by John D. M. Hamilton, Republican National Committee chairman, in Boston to confer with leading party members of Massachusetts.

The G. O. P. leader, in the office of State Chairman Sinclair Weeks, in Beacon street, also called upon President Roosevelt to issue a statement when Justice Black returns from Europe. We now await that statement.

"Trends," Roosevelt," said Hamilton, "promised on September 14 that he would make a statement when Justice Black returns from Europe. We now await that statement."

His New England trip thus far, through Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, the Republican chairman said, has convinced him that the Republican party is strongly building its forces again.

"The situation is not discouraging," he declared. "New England can still be reorganized as a fortress of Republicanism."

"We have no rabbits to pull out of the hat. We are to be concerned only with analyzing and studying the political situation in New England."

Asked if he thought Alfred M. Landon ever again would run for political office, Hamilton said Landon had indicated to the contrary.

He said he had discussed with Landon and former President Hoover a possibility of holding a national convention before the national elections a year from November.

Chairman Hamilton will remain in Massachusetts until next week, he said, and then will proceed to Concord, N. H., for conferences with state party leaders there.

GLIDER DISPLAYED In Lobby at Tech

Air minded students at M. I. T. are witnessing a new stunt of the M. I. T. Glider Society, which is seeking new enthusiasts for "motorless" flying.

The Tech group has put one of the huge motorless planes in the college lobby where it has aroused wide interest.

Both Senate and House administration will face tests of its strength in the first important actions of the session.

The House has on its calendar, awaiting action, the Black-Schoenly wage-hour bill, which split the Democratic membership and provoked a Southern revolt in the closing days of the regular session in August.

The Senate has agreed to make anti-lynching legislation, which also caused a revolt by Southern members. Its first order of business, after a farm bill is passed. Since a farm bill will not be ready for the Senate, it is expected that strong demands will be made for immediate consideration of the anti-lynching measure.

Both the proposed crop control and anti-lynching measures, which already have shown divided Democratic majorities in both bodies.

Garr's Trial Set For Oct. 18

SHREVEPORT, Ky., Oct. 7 (AP).—The Garr brothers—Jack, Roy and Dr. E. R.—will go on trial Monday, October 11, in Shelby circuit court on indictments charging them with the willful murder of Brigadier-General Henry H. Denhardt.

The trial date was set this morning when they were arraigned before Circuit Judge Charles C. Marshall.

Jack and Roy were in court when the case was called and attorneys for the defense presented affidavits from Dr. E. R. Garr stating that Dr. E. R. Garr was too ill to attend court.

Attorney General Hubert Meredith, who is handling the case for the Commonwealth after H. R. Kinnelving, Jr., requested that he be relieved because of his close association with the Garrs during the trial of General Denhardt for the alleged murder of their father, Verna Garr Taylor, caused by a forfeiture of the death sentence.

The court overruled his motion.

What - pay more for my clothes? Don't make me laugh!

"LAST night at the club, the boys were squawking about the high cost of living. The talk got around to clothes, and how much more they cost, and how is the old budget going to stand the gaff. That handed me a laugh, 'cause I'd just bought me a new suit—for not a cent more than I paid last year. ★ You see, I've been getting clothes at Bond's for a long time. Last Spring, when the papers were full of price boosts, I sat tight waiting to see if Bond's would join the parade. Well, they didn't! They stuck to their prices—and I stuck to Bond's. Then along comes October—and the same thing happens all over again. Naturally, I wonder 'how come'. And the way my salesman put it sounds pretty straight. ★ Seems the Bond folks made a lot of new friends (and held a lot of old ones) by not raising prices last season. They figure to repeat, this Fall. By selling a heap more clothes, they can get along with less profit on each suit. This setup gives them an even break—and it sure gives their customers a swell one. ★ Checking woollens was easy. Just seeing and feeling them told me they were up to measure. But when it came to tailoring, I learned something new. I found out that Bond Cloth^{ers} are all made by union needleworkers; and once a standard of quality is set, the union will allow no cheapening. That's their way of keeping people on the job. Of course, I had a hunch that a big outfit like Bond's couldn't afford to chisel on quality—but just the same, this bit of inside dope was mighty comforting. It went big with the gang at the club. That's why I'm passing it along to you. Why not go and see for yourself? You'll find one dandy selection, at just about any price you have in mind."

Probe Sabotage On Cruiser Vincennes

Piece of Steel Found In Warship's Big Reduction Gears

Convinced that one of two accidents aboard the U. S. S. Vincennes was the work of sabotage, government agents have started an inquiry into "damages of machinery" aboard the new $15,000,000 cruiser, it was revealed in Washington today.

Meanwhile the second report of damage to the warship was disclosed at the South Boston drydock, where the craft is locked during the period of her final trial runs.

Captain R. H. Greene, commander of the Vincennes, reported that a bearing was burned while the cruiser was making a trial run on September 28.

It was learned that the bearing was burned because of the failure of someone to turn on the water in a cooling jacket.

STEEL IN GEARS

Captain Greene and other Boston naval officials are agreed that there is no evidence of sabotage in connection with this accident.

The damage under investigation, it was learned, was discovered September 13 when a flat piece of steel was found in the vessel's reduction gear during a routine inspection of the engines in Charlestown Navy Yard.

The injury to the ship's mechanism in each case was described as comparatively slight.

While the identity of the agents charged in the inquiry was not disclosed, it was admitted in Washington that such investigations are commonly assigned to Department of Justice officials.

LIKE QUINCY'S ACCIDENT

No official report of the inquiry will be made public until the findings of the agents are submitted to Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of operations.

At the time of the first damage, Captain Greene suggested that the piece of steel may have been left in the gears through carelessness.

The Vincennes is one of the most modern warships afloat. Built at the Fore River yards she was put in service less than a year ago.

The cruiser Quincy, sister ship of the Vincennes, was damaged to the extent of $250,000 while under construction at Fore River. A bolt, left in the same manner as the piece of steel in the Vincennes, wrecked the Quincy's reduction gears.

"Yes."

Frankford denied that Communists' opposition to the U. S. was based on opposition of Reds from Fascist government countries.

He denied also that the opposition to Fascism had replaced the Communist cry, "Down with Capitalism."

As the hearing was called to order in the State House, it was learned that Communist leaders were preparing for the over three of American institutions in the case of victory in the present struggle against Japanese imperialism.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those suffering painful backache, people blame on colds or strain or often assume by tired kidneys and may not know what to do about it.

The kidneys are the great filters of the body. They filter out the waste matter from the blood. Most people pass about a pint of urine every 15 minutes.

If the 15 minutes of kidney labor will filter out the waste matter, it is a matter of time before the kidneys are overworked and get tired. When the kidneys get tired, they stop filtering properly. This causes the waste matter to build up in the blood. This waste matter causes the backache, the tired feeling, the headache, the dizziness, the nervousness, the general feeling of being unwell.

It is easy to get the kidneys back to work. There is a simple way to do it. It is called "Kidney Relief." It is a simple, natural, and safe way to get the kidneys back to work. It is the only way to get the kidneys back to work. It is the only way to get the kidneys back to work.

Mrs. Taff said that she and her husband, Patrick, had known Gilman for 50 years and that he had lived with them 21 years.

'Gansett' Track Now Sure to Stay Closed

All Quiet on Battle Front; O'Hara At Series

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 7.—While all was quiet along the "battle front" of "Gansett" front here today, only one thing remained certain: That the two million-dollar race track would not open for its fall meeting (October 18).

As peace efforts in the political battle between Walter E. O'Hara and Governor Robert E. Quinn reached an impasse, friends of both sides expressed the conviction that the track would not open.

It was pointed out that even if O'Hara's pending Supreme Court move to quash the order of the state racing division suspending the track's license is granted, new charges could be brought to close it again.

O'HARA AT SERIES

O'Hara, meanwhile, was in New York attending the World Series.

Promises of action in O'Hara's scheduled appearance in such District Court to face charges of criminal libel lodged against him by William E. Barker, New York advertising man, entered out when the hearing was postponed two weeks.

However, the managing director and president of the Narragansett Racing Association, Inc., kept the firm of the publisher's friend going with a parting blast leveled at the racing division of Governor Quinn in O'Hara's newspaper, the Providence Star-Tribune.

COPY OF CHECK

Regulated was a photostatic copy of a $10,000 check presented to the Democratic State Chairman Thomas A. Kennedy for the party campaign fund.

Recently admitted receiving the voucher and said that at the same time O'Hara had donated another $10,000 toward the party effort, making a total of $20,000.

Adding to the copy after accepting the long list has assumed on several occasions since it began the rebellion by more than 100 of the 120 Providence members of the party.

9-Power Parley On Peace Aim Of Britain

Wants Conference
Held in U. S., France
Backs Move

LONDON, Oct. 7 (INS)—The American government's latest bid for inducing Japan to accept an agreement today encouraged Britain to seek to induce President Roosevelt to hold a peace-preservation conference at Washington, France was understood to be backing Britain in this action.

The move was in line with Britain's policy of getting United States to take the initiative in steps to halt the Far Eastern conflict.

WANT PARLEY HERE

International News Service learned that Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador at Washington, will be instructed to ask whether the American government will be willing to hold such a parley in Washington, and to point out that Britain considers the American capital the "most opportune spot." The United States is regarded by Britain as a virtual guarantor of the Nine Power treaty guaranteeing the territorial and administrative integrity of China. The treaty was signed in Washington in 1922.

WAIT DUCE NEXT

The nations which signed the pact are: The United States, Great Britain, Italy, Belgium, Japan, France, The Netherlands, Portugal, and China.

At the same time, Britain remained vitally concerned regarding developments in the Spanish civil war situation.

Premier Mussolini was strongly urged today to give a favorable reply to the Anglo-French invitation for a tripartite conference to consider the situation.

It was understood here that Lord Perth, British ambassador in Rome, warned the Italian foreign office that if the Italian reply is unsatisfactory a "grave situation" will be created.

Consider Duce's Case

NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN ANTHONY EDEN

Shown leaving a British cabinet meeting are Premier Neville Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, the two men who now shoulder principal responsibility for calling Duce to task for Italian activities in Spain. Eden has just joined with French Ambassador Charles Corbin in warning Duce that he is expected to give an "early reply" to proposals for withdrawal of foreign forces from Spanish territory.

Duce to Express Ire at U. S. and Shun Parley

Boycott of American Products Is Also
Hinted in Rome

ROME, Oct. 7 (INS)—Angered by the American denunciation of Japan and "international lawlessness," the Italian government will probably boycott the proposed nine-power conference on the Sino-Japanese war, it was learned today.

Italy is a signatory to the nine-power treaty.

Rome is expected to take the attitude the parley was proposed by the League of Nations which is boycotted by Italy, and that hence Italy must ignore the conference.

The Italian government will refuse all dealings with the league until it recognizes Mussolini's conquest of Ethiopia.

Facet circles openly hinted a boycott of American goods by Italy may result from President Roosevelt's Chicago peace speech condemning warlike nations.

Mussolini was reported angry over the President's Chicago speech, which he considered aimed at Italy and Germany as well as Japan.

Further expression of Duce's ire was seen in his order to his son, Vittorio, to return home immediately from the United States.

Chinese Leader Moved by Stand Of Roosevelt

Generalissimo Says
Action Given Hope
In Justice

NANKING, Oct. 7 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek declared today that President Roosevelt's expression of the sanctity of treaties gratified not only the suffering people of China, but all true patriots.

Furthermore, he added, the United States' President's statement was gratifying to those greater nations which realize that enduring peace can only be built upon foundations of strict international morality.

In an interview with the Associated Press, the leader of China said:

"Happily we learn that the state department in Washington had condemned actions of aggression. For this upholding of international faith, justice and the sanctity of treaties, I am profoundly moved."

"We are as determined as ever to defend ourselves to the utmost. No anti-treaty is upheld and the sanctity of international treaties is observed, do we cease our resistance."

"Now, however, that the United States has spoken and spoken so well, it gives us hope that our faith in justice will be realized."

Quarantining the enemy neighbor in good medicine. Vaccinating yourself with the anti-toxin is better. Back in 1917 we learned that the subject can be changed, and that a President can check his mind with his hat.

Nazis to Refuse Japan Moves

BERLIN, Oct. 7 (INS)—Germany received a British-inspired message behind Washington's denunciation of Japan today—and gave it a cold shoulder.

All indications were that Germany would remain solidly with Italy in refusing to make any move against the Japanese exception in China, despite denunciations by America or the League of Nations.

At the same time, high German quarters indicated Germany would not lift a finger against Japan, and that the official Berlin point of view is that Japan's actions in the Orient are none of Germany's business.

In support of this, it was pointed out, Germany is not a signatory of the Nine Power pact, is not a member of the League of Nations, and has not been asked to participate in the proposed nine-power conference on the Sino-Japanese conflict.

Roosevelt Threat Seen Unsupported by Force

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN
(Special to Boston Evening American)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—President Roosevelt's belated Chicago speech constitutes a threat against the three great world nations in the world today—a threat unsupported by force.

The evidence seems conclusive that it was the President's own product, delivered without prior consultation with the three branches of government usually called upon for such advice. The two military branches, and the diplomatic branch.

State war and navy were equally at sea as to the President's intentions, the meaning of his words. That there is danger in these words none here is informed circles seeks to deny.

The phrase "demonstrated effect" used by the President, has a definite military meaning. It means military cooperation through the employment of force. Yet America today is unprepared for the exertion of force. Every military attaché in Washington knows it.

The dilemma presented by the President's address is that the gesture will be worse than futile if it is not followed up by action.

The United States then will have succeeded only in inciting the enemy of Germany, Italy and Japan, while raising false hopes in China and elsewhere, the non-fulfillment of which eventually will merely alienate friendships.

While it was done chiefly against Japanese aggression in China, Washington was quick to see the Chicago speech had direct bearing upon the civil war in Spain, along a line calculated to be beneficial to the Loyalist government, and antagonistic to Germany and Italy.

Washington in short, saw the speech as being helpful to the Communist cause.

The most amazing feature of the radio address was the disclosure of Mr. Roosevelt's intention.

Not since Woodrow Wilson shook the fist first, and the finger afterwards, a policy which led to war, has American diplomacy been subjected to such violation.

The Chicago speech is a repudiation of the recent Black Island warning that America remained in China, their own risk, and the subsequent embargo of arms to the Orient. The President reversed himself and his foreign policy in the twinkling of an eye.

The President's closest adviser today in foreign affairs is Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles. Welles returned to Washington from England, very quietly, only four days ago, after a momentary mission abroad. He has kept closely secluded ever since, but it is not doubted that he has communicated directly with the President. His advice, heard is clearly perceived.

Many who are in the Chicago speech honored but meaningless words, who derided the threat of war involved, were quick to detect in a diversion from popular excitement over the appointment of former Kiaman Hugo L. Black to the Supreme Court. Some thought the diversion intentional, although that would be playing with fire indeed.

Thus often does one sensation obliterate the memory of another.

China Watches Washington Policy

Carnegie Forgotten as Nations Discuss President's Talk

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

(Copyright, 1937)

SHANGHAI, Oct. 7 (INS)—While rain soaked the battlefields, and tons of explosives churned munitions mounds, the Chinese and Japanese troops contending for the outskirts of Shanghai, all China's attention was riveted today exclusively on the possibility the United States might act against Japan.

The entire nation wondered if this was the passing to be drawn from President Roosevelt's peace speech at Chicago and the American state department's statement condemning Japan as an aggressor.

New for the first time, Washington's attitude toward evacuation of American citizens from China became understandable.

Thousands of Americans here who were puzzled, were now enraged by orders pressing them to leave their homes and investments on what seemed to be insufficient grounds today comprehended the meaning of the American policy.

UNDERSTAND NOW
They have accepted the idea that if Washington intends to act against Japan, evacuation of American citizens becomes a precautionary measure, understandable to those whom initially it hurt.

It is now confidently expected here that the United States will participate in the proposed nine power pact conference and that Washington is willing to join the League of Nations in imposing full economic sanctions against Japan.

In the official Chinese view Japan would crumble under such economic sanctions and would be compelled to withdraw from China. It was possible also that economic sanctions never had a real trial, at all sections, the only effective type, were never applied to Italy during her Ethiopian campaign.

MEAN WAR
The Chinese report the theory that sanctions mean war and has anyone believed Japan would liberally wage war against the whole world.

Moreover, a considerable number of Americans and other foreigners after the American State Department's apparent activity regarding the reaction of Japanese military officials.

The prospect would fully justify the State Department's statement that Americans out of the way of an even remotely possible massacre.

Japan Calls New Recruits to Colors

TOKYO, Oct. 7 (INS)—In a grim reply to the United States government's statement branding her an aggressor, Japan called new recruits to the colors today.

Preparing for any eventuality as a result of condemnation of its China campaign by the United States and the League of Nations assembly, the Japanese government made it plain she has no intention of altering her course.

London Recalls Stimson, 1931

Paper Warns U. S. 'To Think'

LONDON, Oct. 7 (INS)—Warning that the United States was hurrying itself into an economic blockade against Japan, the London Evening News said today: "America may about, come on, but in other nations, it is to discover, when those nations find excuses for holding back, that she has excited violent Japanese enmity without doing China any good."

In 1931, when former Secretary of State Stimson sharply criticized Japan's invasion of Manchuria in expectation that the British government would back him up, Britain failed to act.

Chinese Ally, Nature, Slows Up Japanese

Mother Nature is one ally upon whom the Chinese can always count, as they defend their vast and rugged national area. The picture shows the sort of barrier which is forever slowing up the Japanese war machine. Invading infantrymen find themselves obliged to traverse a flooded countryside, which they can cross on foot, but which will inevitably cripple their service of supply, their tanks and their artillery.

TEXT OF U. S. NOTE CONDEMNING JAPAN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—Here is the text of the State Department's condemnation of Japanese military operations in China:

The department of state has been informed by the American Minister to Switzerland of the report adopted by the League of Nations setting forth the advisory committee's examination of the facts of the present situation in China and the treaty obligations of Japan. The minister has further informed the department that this report was adopted and approved by the assembly of the League of Nations on October 6.

Since the beginning of the present controversy in the Far East, the government of the United States has urged upon both the Chinese and the Japanese governments that they refrain from hostilities, and has offered to be of assistance in an effort to find some means acceptable to both parties in the method of composing by pacific methods the situation in the Far East.

POSITION MADE CLEAR
The secretary of state in statements made public on July 16 and August 23 made clear the position of the government of the United States in regard to international problems and international relationships throughout the world and as applied specifically to the hostilities which are in progress between China and Japan.

Among the principles which in the opinion of the government of the United States should govern international relations throughout the world and as applied specifically to the hostilities which are in progress between China and Japan, it is to be maintained, are absolute respect for all nations for the rights of self-determination and for the principle of the sanctity of treaties.

On October 5 at Chicago, the President elaborated these principles, emphasizing their importance, and in a discussion of the principles, and that it is there can be no stability for peace within nations or between nations except under laws and moral standards addressed to by that international assembly destroys every foundation of peace that is possible, either the immediate or the future security of every nation, large or small; and that it is therefore of vital interest and concern to the people of the United States that respect for national and international morality be restored.

Legion Men Hear War Warning

CHATEAU-THIERREY, France, Oct. 7 (AP)—Warnings that the United States fought in the World War are again given meaning today from speakers dedicating a monument to the American soldiers who repelled the German drive at Chateau-Thierry 15 years ago.

General James O. Harbord, member of the Second Division, and other notable speakers at the ceremonies, asserted that the stakes upheld during the World War are still alive and that the forces of democracy are still other general war, which is being perpetuated at different ends of the world.

Four thousand American Legionnaires, wearing France in particular in these memorial ceremonies, heard speakers denounce the "barbarism, predation and selfish disregard of the rights of individuals and nations which still linger in dark places."

Roosevelt Mum On New Policy

Rests With Family At Hyde Park

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 7 (INS)—President Roosevelt had the whole world guessing what his future foreign policy would be today, but there were many indications.

Here at Hyde Park, the President relaxed momentarily with his family and refused to make any public statement amplifying his occasional "China" speech, which he intentionally avoided Japan, Germany and Italy, of formulating another world conflict.

There was no comment on the State Department's indictment of Japan as the aggressor in an unprovoked war with China.

Lauds Speech As Peace Aid

Monster Contribution Says Churchill

LONDON, Oct. 7 (AP)—Winston Churchill told the hearers here tonight of the Conservative party today that President Roosevelt's Chicago speech was bound to bring an "enormous contribution to the consolidation of those forces in the world which stand for peace and freedom."

Churchill, first lord of the admiralty during the World War, urged support of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in this "time of grave anxiety" when "terrible deeds of brutal violence are being perpetrated at different ends of the world."

He warned against exaggerated expectations from the President's speech, but insisted that Roosevelt's expressed in "eloquent language exactly the same ideas we are in our minds."

He indicated that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain would announce Roosevelt's sentiments in a speech tomorrow.

U. S. Lifts Russ War Buying Ban

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—The United States Government has announced the purchase by Russia in this country of materials and guns for the construction of one or more modern battleships.

It was disclosed today in state department statistics showing that licenses were issued in September permitting the export to Russia of the steel for the construction of one or more modern battleships.

More than half of this sum represents purchase of armor plate for the battleships, and the remainder of the earlier purchases raised by the state department to permit the sale of the armor plate.

It was also announced that the United States approved of Japan's actions in China.

Japanese Press Scores Stand of Roosevelt

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, Oct. 7.—The Japanese press today came out with a series of criticism leveled at President Roosevelt as news was received here of the American government's formal action in pronouncing Japan an aggressor and treaty violator.

The State Department's charges against this country, supporting the stand of the League of Nations, landed like a bombshell here, but authoritative comment was withheld pending formal action of an official reply.

However, an official spokesman told International News Service the Japanese government is "greatly disappointed" by America's statement.

In an editorial obviously inspired by official sources, the newspaper Asahi summed up the general Japanese reaction to Washington's latest move in the Far East. It was, it commented, "a blow to the United States and to the League of Nations."

STUDY U. S. STAND
This reaction, like virtually all previous explanations by Japan of course, is based on the conviction here that Japan is fighting a "holy war" in China for the world. That other nations do not regard the conflict in the same light is a sore point with the Japanese, who claim they are "miserable slaves" by the western world.

At a special emergency meeting, all foreign officials suspected the Washington pronouncement, in a minute scrutiny, and announced their official reaction. The Japanese also made after the study was made by the western world.

Officials indicated that it was a "serious matter" and evaluated against accepting any comment "outside official circles."

JAPANESE STUNNED
Meanwhile, the Japanese public was stunned by the news of the Japanese statement, which it has heretofore been led to believe that the United States approved of Japan's actions in China.

England, the Japanese public had been told repeatedly, formed Japan's "most valuable and political ally."

Despite the government's attitude of withholding comment until the American charges have been fully studied, a foreign office spokesman told International News Service:

"We have already made clear our attitude in our previous replies to Secretary of State Cullen."

"It is unlikely now to apply the Nine Power and Kellogg-Brand pact to this situation. The principles involved do not apply to these treaties."

"It is unfortunate the United States has been led to mix in the Far Eastern conflict. The American statement does not serve any useful purpose."

THIS IS LIFE

By Robert E. Rogers

They are still trying to find out whether the stenographer reads more than the boss, or

ROBERT E. ROGERS

I can't remember that about ten years ago a popular weekly of wide circulation tried the same thing on its staff. And so we come to the magazine published the names and photographs of everybody who worked on the sheet in any capacity.

Finds Stenographers Go Heavy for Romance

The list ran all the way down from the high-ups who had sweet editorial positions under the guardianship of a presumably beautiful recreation clerk, through the innumerable stenographers, filing clerks, even to the men who normally would not be queried in such a list, the typographers and printers, the shipping clerks and probably the very sales agents.

The idea was to include everybody who in any way took part in getting out the magazine. Their reading experiences and tastes.

As I remember it, the testimony of these people differed considerably from Dr. Tyler's resume. He found, he says, that stenographers went in heavily for romance, glamour, and confessions, while clerks liked to lose themselves in mystery and adventure stories. The bosses, if they read at all, were more likely to pick up books on social questions. But they didn't seem to read as much as the younger people in the more mechanical jobs.

From the magazine list I came to the conclusion that age was more important than the job. The middle-aged people, presumably with the better job, testified, usually that the books which had impressed them most were the favorites of their younger days—and those were usually romances.

Old Fashioned Stories Favored by Middle Aged

"Ben Hur" was a favorite, and "Richard Carvel," and the long line of costume romances which burgeoned at the turn of the century. The middle-aged folks' reading was quite definitely old fashioned, whereas the youngsters were reading the book of the moment, often a more serious kind of book.

That year, I remember, was the year of Dreiser's "An American Tragedy," to a girl, the stenographers were reading the tragic tale of Robert's drowning at the hands of Clyde Griffiths who subsequently went to the chair.

The fact that the book was pretty grim stuff didn't bother the girls just out of high school. Their elders, however, still remembered pleasantly the milder romances of their youth and wouldn't touch Dreiser with a ten-foot pole.

High School Students Big Non-Fiction Readers

In one respect Dr. Tyler's conclusions about reading do agree pretty well with mine. He thinks that high school pupils read more than college students, and in that I agree.

I have noticed many instances of cases where boys enter technology with a pretty wide background of reading, only to lose it rapidly as they get involved with their professional work at school. I suspect the same thing is true—other things being equal of boys and girls in the liberal arts colleges.

He also thinks that high school students read a larger proportion of non-fiction than the stenographers, whose reading tends to run to 80 per cent of fiction. Both kinds of students, though, have a wider reading range than the adult groups. That, too, is probably correct.

My opinion, incidentally, backs his up completely, when he says that it is wrong to rub a young person's nose in the classics, since boys and girls who have too much of them in school are likely to drop them completely on graduation. I am afraid that is true.

Perhaps four more years of this type of study will tell us more worth knowing about the reading habits of our young persons and our adults. I certainly hope so.

Saturnia Sails, 150 Embark

More than 150 persons left Boston for the Saturnia and Mediterranean ports today.

The ship was three hours late in leaving from New York, but a fast loading of freight at this port reduced the departure delay more than an hour.

Among those who sailed were Prince Stanislaus Czartoryski of Poland with his wife, the former Mrs. Vera Van Ness Allen, and her daughter Vera Allen.

Before leaving Prince Czartoryski in an interview with reporters admitted lightly the possibility of an immediate world war.

"There is more talk about war in this country than there is in Europe. If the European countries entertained any serious thought of a new war they would have used the present Spanish civil war as a reason to start one. I don't think we will see any war for many years to come."

"My sympathies in the present war in Spain are with General Franco. I believe he is really trying to build Spain for the Spanish."

Others who sailed on the Saturnia were Mr. and Mrs. T. Handford Cabot of Boston. They took with them their press Irwin Heller. It marked the dog's tenth crossing of the Atlantic.

Governor Hurley Tells This One About Himself

A belated Brookline Fair story is related by Governor Hurley. While doing the fair, he encountered William G. Winsor, 95-year-old G. A. R. veteran and grandfather of Manager Richard Winsor of the Hotel Commander in Cambridge.

The veteran suggested he show the Governor around. At the end of three hours, the Governor, who had a busy morning before leaving the State House, confessed he had seen enough and wanted to sit down and rest.

"Why you are tired yet!" said the old man, in astonishment. "We're just getting started. My soul, you certainly don't look so delicate."

Harlow to Start Allen, Jameson Against Brown

Harvard's backfield at the Stadium Saturday against Brown will probably be the same as that which started against Springfield last week, but there will be two important changes in the forward wall.

The change in the line comes about because of the fact that the Harvard team has lost its center, Jameson, to the Navy. Jameson was a very good center, and his loss is a serious blow to the Harvard team. The Harvard team will have to make do with the line it has left, and it is expected that they will be able to hold their own against Brown.

HERB HOLM, re-elected president of the New England A. A. U., is an ideal leader for amateur athletics. He has dedicated his life to sports, and has been helpful in increasing interest in amateur athletics in this country.

Herb was a member of the Olympic committee, and was one of the few members of that body who voted in favor of Eleanor Holm Jarrett competing at Berlin.

The head of the New England A. A. U. did not consider Eleanor's infraction of rules sufficiently serious to ban her from competing in the Olympic games. Most other fair-minded Americans felt as Herb did. It was a case of certain holier than thou gentlemen putting on a show for their own edification.

The younger group in the New England A. A. U. is to be complimented for casting their support to J. Frank Facey who was once elected secretary. Facey has made amateur athletics his life's work. His counsel and assistance in the duties of management have been instrumental in making hundreds of amateur athletic promotions a success.

The New England A. A. U. is more progressive than similar bodies in other parts of the country. The national body could well take a page from the book of the New England A. A. U.

I am in sympathy with the effort of the New England A. A. U. to make it a more progressive body. It is a body which is dedicated to the cause of amateur athletics, and it is hoped that it will continue to do well in the future.

Steel Price Cut Denied

Auto Maker Reported to Have Placed Orders

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

Fears of widespread price declines for finished steel products have been allayed by word from Detroit and Pittsburgh that a major auto manufacturer failed to force reductions. The immediate result should be the placing of sizable orders for 1938 model production.

Chrysler and General Motors are reported to have placed good volume, particularly in steel sheets, and other makers are expected to follow their lead. Whether or not such ordering will prevent a further slump in production is problematic. But regarding the steel price problems the success of steel mills in staying off a determined drive for lower prices is most encouraging. At this stage of the business cycle when markets generally are weak and the outlook is blue in nature, the steel industry is a financial and trade trends should carefully follow financial goods prices. And we feel that there is a definite reason for this. It is that news from an industry whose opening outlook is none too rosy.

The big three of New England industry—steel and leather, cotton and woolen textiles—are not displaying bright news these days. Current trade reports all of light demand which naturally means a reduction in prices. The price situation in textiles is not encouraging with leading factories in evidence. Steel and leather prices are uncertain according to Dun & Bradstreet's weekly survey of conditions in the New England area. They are selling very little leather and are practically out of the market even though actual leather sales show little change.

Behind manufacturing is the retail trade situation. In this section, as elsewhere, retailers are not making expected gains. As a whole, they are doing better than they did a year ago but prospective business is not so bright. All in all the key to the entire outlook is a spur in consumer buying which would checkmate the placing of orders for finished goods. It is a picture of a market which is active would take place together with a firming of raw material prices.

This writer finds much in market action this week that is encouraging. As a whole, the industrial average is off to what was termed a steady level. There is no reason to believe that the steel industry is off to what was termed a steady level. There is no reason to believe that the steel industry is off to what was termed a steady level.

Another encouraging development is the buying interest shown by people who have been out of the market for some time. They are not making expected gains. As a whole, they are doing better than they did a year ago but prospective business is not so bright. All in all the key to the entire outlook is a spur in consumer buying which would checkmate the placing of orders for finished goods.

Old-Time 'War Babies' Gain, Inspires General Recovery

Rate Spending Expansion Indicated

Stocks Reveal Advances To 3 Points

By MERVILLE STANLEY RUKETTER

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—As the new automobile models compete for the consumer's dollar this autumn, the first effective test of new and added costs on popular demand will be made.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP).—The prospect for expansion of railroad spending is engaging attention of business circles in the wake of settlement of wage differences with the operating unions.

In its mid-week summary "Iron Age" referred to the wage agreement as the removal of "one obstacle" to resumption of buying.

Carriers started curtailing maintenance and repair work in the past several months ago. The action just about coincided with the announcement of wage increases and demands by operating and non-operating employees. A settlement of the net income curve after a long period of the war was also mentioned as a factor in the adoption of less active spending policies.

Indirect in the future trend of railroad buying is heightened at the moment by suggestions the recent strike in the heavy industry was due in no small part to a falling off of the general rate of price supplies.

Wage agreements this year in the automobile industry, as in other industries, have been a factor in the annual payroll of the carriers by more than $100,000,000, according to the industry.

Some regard the settlements a doubtful stimulant of railroad purchasing power, but Iron Age points out that the carriers are not the Interstate Commerce Commission's ruling on the carriers' plan for an increase in rates of certain classes of freight. This has been before the Interstate Commerce Commission and a decision is expected any day.

Analysts scanned reports of the business outlook and found them conflicting. The Federal Reserve Board's communication house reported that business was likely to hold below 1936 level for some time. Prospects of a turn in the early part of next year were also mentioned.

Bears Innocent In Market Weakness Forbes Reiterates Warning to 'Shorts'

By R. C. FORBES

It would be most unfortunate were the impression to spread throughout the country that high finance and big business are indifferent for political reasons to what happens to business and securities.

It is absurd for anyone to allege that the severe shrinkage in investment value has been brought about solely by short selling, by "bear raids"; that there have been more or less short selling, more or less bear raids, more or less taken for granted—there always is when things become extremely unsettled.

But no evidence, no facts, no figures have been furnished to prove that bears have been a chief factor in underpricing prices.

This claim repeatedly revealed, when both business and stocks were bracing on the upswing, that many leaders were acutely apprehensive over prospects and were acting accordingly. Unquestionably, there was widespread liquidation of securities, particularly by heavyweights.

Utmost caution was also exercised by controlling corporations to spending, to expansion programs. Many began buying.

One consequence has been that the market has been extremely tight, notwithstanding the heavy liquidation of bonds into issues bearing lower interest rates, and being carried on, in order to avoid charges.

But little fresh capital has been sought by industrial or utility companies or other active enterprises.

Many "explanations" of the violent narrowing in stocks and the slackening in certain lines of industry and construction have been offered, including fears over foreign situations.

But the main explanation, the real explanation, can be expressed in many words: What is going on?

Almost every man occupying a position of prominence, who has intimate acquaintance with the business world, has been extremely fearful of the future.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—A demand that the Chicago Board of Trade investigate the activities of all interests involved in the September corn market was issued today by the exchange directorship today by Cargill, Inc., of Minneapolis.

In a letter to the exchange, John H. MacMillan, president of the board, requested that the two anti-trust committees investigating the "corner" in September corn "ascertain the facts and circumstances surrounding the alleged manipulation of the market."

The exchange directorship recently called for exchange directors to investigate the alleged manipulation of the market.

Market observers said Cargill, Inc., a holding company which controls the Cargill Grain Company of Illinois, was the largest holder of September corn contracts.

War Talk May Be Roosevelt Alien Motive Sudden Shift by President Seen Characteristic

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—The sudden shift by the President from promises of government spending to make the nation happy at home, to suggestions of government spending to make foreigners be good, is characteristic.

Probably there is a mixture of motives. Mixing them up or change of place, is one.

There may also be the shift to blame the depression on foreign conditions, as Mr. Roosevelt may now be getting ready to blame his own depression upon an epidemic of world lawlessness.

We may well remember, too, that all political parties who employ the power to say "must" to their legislators and courts are apt to show some of the dictator's urge to "stand up to" other dictators.

War talk and an "external" emergency tend to heighten their importance and increase their power internally.

Re that as it may, the President's shift of speech has tended to emphasize the fear of war, and probably has increased the danger that he may be drawn into it. The action of security markets seems to have reflected this.

Probably there will be much discussion of conditions in the world, and I think that Americans are as ready to go to war as they were in 1914. It may turn out, therefore, that the speech will not be so popular as those about giving the home folks money to spend.

In the construction of property and interference with business, the world outside while not harder to sell foreign investments to the masses.

To my mind, it is inconsistent to talk about lawlessness, freedom, and peace, and then to turn to the world outside while not harder to sell foreign investments to the masses.

We cannot have complete protection in a world of disorder in which confidence and security have been broken down.

Well, the building trades, the stock market, and the exchange of stocks and bonds are saying the same thing. They, however, are concerned with the material world, where the lack of protection of property and interference with business is a real danger.

Turning back to the story of the following line in confidence.

Wants an abandonment of a standard for the dollar; devaluation of the dollar; and a return to the London conference, government aid for CIO and lawless sit-down strikes.

Attempt to destroy the independence of the courts, attacks upon lawyers, attacks upon the press, and attacks upon the police and the army and navy.

Urges Defeat of Rail Bill

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 7 (AP)—Declaring railroads "now have all the regulation they can stand," J. Gormley, executive assistant of the Association of American Railroads, today urged defeat of the bill of freight trains to 70 cars.

In an address to delivery before the Atlantic Shippers' Association, Gormley said the bill is a "definite barrier to progress in the railroad industry."

"Not only should it be defeated," he said, "but the power to regulate railroads should be transferred to the Interstate Commerce Commission."
